Safeguard Your Critical Assets, Today and Every Day

AXIOS Industrial combines technology with craftsmanship to properly treat structural steel, tanks, vessels, pipelines and other complex equipment. Our certified coatings experts are rigorously trained to ensure your facility and all its components are operating in top form today and into the future.

Unparalleled Expertise at Work for You

Guided by our stringent safety protocol, AXIOS ensures that every industrial coatings project meets safety and regulatory requirements—from our corrosion under insulation (CUI) service to tank coatings and beyond.

AXIOS Industrial's coatings services control corrosion, minimize replacement costs and extend the life of your assets. AXIOS offers coatings, reinforced linings or specialized surface preparations to ensure your most critical assets remain in top working condition.

Our team is home to NACE-certified coatings inspectors and other experts associated with the Steel Structures Painting Council (SSPC) and the Houston Coating Society.

Our painting and coatings experts are highly trained, fully certified and experienced in a wide variety of painting and coatings needs across the industrial sector.

Blasting Away Inefficiency With AXIOJET™

AXIOJET™ is the better way to remove tank coatings and liners. Utilizing a 40,000 psi high-pressure pump, our proprietary water jetting and recovery system eliminates unwanted or ineffective tank coatings and liners with just 3,000 to 4,000 gallons of water—making it easier than ever to treat tank floor bottoms and sides. Get ready to raise the benchmark for efficiency and environmental impact.
